News & Updates

The Sorrowful Mysteries of the Holy Rosary
First…The Agony in the Garden
Second…The Scourging at the Pillar
Third…The Crowning of Thorns
Fourth…The Carrying of the Cross
Fifth…The Crucifixion

We continue our Lenten journey with the Fourth Sorrowful Mystery: The Carrying of the Cross.
"And bearing the cross for Himself, He went forth to the place called the Skull, in Hebrew, Golgotha"

O Lady of Sorrows, tearfully you watched the Roman soldiers thrust the heavy wooden Cross upon the back and shoulders of Jesus. The Man of Sorrows was one mass of wounds from head to foot. But that did not cause any sympathy on the part of His captors. They beat Him along the Way of the Cross. Everything was permissible so long as He arrived at Calvary, the Hill of the Skulls. For fear that He might collapse before arriving there, they forced Simon of Cyrene to help carry the Cross. Along the way Jesus met you, Mary, at the turn of the street; He fell three times; mercifully He had His face wiped by Veronica who received His image on the veil; and He consoled the holy women with the words: "Weep not for me but for yourselves and your children".

Our Lady of the Rosary, obtain for me from your Son a love of the Cross so that I may carry it all the days of my life.

Please pray this decade every evening with your family and meditate on these words. Amen.

Please join us at
St. Brigid Church, Tuesday March 12, at 6pm as we present the St. Joseph Icon and again at St. Mark's Church, Tuesday evening March 19, at 7pm.
We look forward to praying with you.

May this Lent bring you closer to Jesus, each day.

God Bless.

GOODNEWS: St. Brigid relic returns to her parish church in Kildare

A relic of St. Brigid was returned to her hometown on Jan. 28, more than a millennium after it was first taken. According to tradition, Brigid, born around the year 450 in Dundalk, County Louth, Ireland, was buried at her monastery in Kildare.

Around 300 years later, when the Vikings were raiding Ireland, her remains were moved to Downpatrick in present-day Northern Ireland and buried alongside Ireland's other two patron saints, St. Patrick and St. Colmcille. St. Brigid's remains were moved again in the 16th century and taken to Portugal to be preserved from King Henry VIII's forces.

A fragment of Brigid's remains was returned to Ireland in the 1930s for private devotion. Now, to mark 1,500 years since her death, that fragment has been enclosed in a special reliquary and moved to St. Brigid's parish church.

Hundreds of people gathered in Kildare for Mass to mark the occasion. Bishop Denis Nulty of Kildare and Leighlin called the celebration of St. Brigid's Day on Feb. 1 a moment to reflect on the saint's message of hospitality.

Bishop Nulty said he hoped the relic would inspire the faithful to follow Brigid's example. "It's too simple to install a relic and leave it at that. She would call us to do much more!" the bishop said. "What were the character traits that defined St. Brigid of Kildare? To mention just a few, she was hospitable, she was a peacemaker, she was a strong woman of faith."

Noting recent anti-immigrant protests at asylum centers, Bishop Nulty lamented the fact that Ireland has a tradition of welcoming people, but "not always if you are fleeing persecution, war or trauma."

"The scenes on some of our streets and the misinformation that passes unverified on social media disturb because this is not the hospitality that Brigid espoused."
